NEEDS $573 OF THOSE TRIPLER MILLIONS FOR SALARY.

Clerk - Stenographer - Transfer - Agent Needs It More, but Her Judgment Against the Concern Came Back Unsatisfied-Applies for a Receiver.

An application for a receiver for the Consolidated Liquid Air Company was made yesterday to Justice MacLean in the Sureme Court by John McCrone, attorney for Harry B. Young. The matter was adjourned until to-day. The company is the successor of the Tripler Liquid Air Company, whose affairs were the subject of much notoriety about three years ago.

On June 13 Miss Romain Coston, who had acted as clerk, stenographer and transfer agent for the Consolidated company, got a judgment against the concern for $573, the balance of salary due from Jan. 1, 1902, to Nov. 25, 1903. The judgment was returned unsatisfied. Thereupon it was assigned to Mr. Young, who now asks to have the company put into the hands of a receiver.

The Tripler Liquid Air Company was organized under the laws of Arizona in 1899. It was a consolidation of the Tripler Air Refrigerator Company and the Tripler Air Power Company and it was authorized to have a capital of $10,000,000, based on patents of Charles E. Tripler for producing liquid air. The public was informed that at last the ideal motive power, the ideal cooling and heating power, the ideal local anæsthetic and the really modern garbage destroyer had been found.

Then Mr. Tripler was elected president of the company and S. W. Dorsey of Star Route frauds fame vice-president and chairman of the executive committee. Among others interested were J. M. B. Grosvenor, Senator John P. Jones of Ne vada, Senator Frank Cannon of Utah Harry P. Layton and W. A. Vincent.

First of all it was decided to have the stock divided into 1,000,000 shares at $10 each, so as to let as many investors as possible have a chance at the "good thing." The stock was divided into three parts, of which 250,000 shares went to Tripler for his invention. Then there was a fund of 400,000 shares, which was to be divided among the directors and other officers for their per-shares, which was to be divided among the directors and other officers for their personal use. The balance of the stock was to be put into the treasury and sold for the benefit of the company by the stock brokerage firm of Fennel & Co. None of the stock allotted to the directors was to be sold until the expiration of two years.

Fennel, who declared he spent $100,000 in advertising the project, and who was to have the exclusive right to sell the stock to the investors, soon said he had discovered that certain of the directors were taking advantage of the market his firm had created and were disposing of their stock in Liquid Air at $5 a share.

A great row followed among the directors, and charges and counter charges of bad faith and double dealing were hurled back and forth. A stockholder named Goldberg, who had bought 233 shares at $5, demanded his money back, but his name could not be found in the books containing the list of stockholders. He became so excited then that he appealed to the police for help.

One of the pieces of advertising literature put out by Fennel & Co. figured the profits of one branch of the business alone at $165,000,000 a year, but the investors never saw any part of those millions.

000,000 a year, but the investors never saw any part of those millions.

It was said that the money received for the stock sold to the public had been used in building and equipping a plant to manufacture the machinery which was to be put on the market. The only plant that could be discovered was in quarters in the rear of a blacksmith shop in West Eighty-ninth street.

The company was reorganized later under the laws of the State of New York. It is against the reorganized concern that Miss Coston got a judgment for the salary it has failed to pay. Its headquarters were at 44 Wall street. Charles B. Gwynn is the president.

The Consolidated Company was incorporated at Albany on Nov. 4, 1901, with a capital of $1,000,000. Among the incorporators were ex-United States Senator Richard F. Pettigrew of South Dakota, Marion Butler of North Carolina and Mr. Tripler. The capital stock was divided into sen not share of $5 each.

HAS SHADOW ARRESTED. Promoter Says Private Sleuth Threatened and Annoyed Him.

Charles D. Pullen, a promoter of oil com panies, of 2 Stone street, who has for a long time been engaged in litigation with other business men, caused the arrest yesterday of John McKew, a private detective o 535 East Eighty-fifth street. Pullen told Magistrate Mayo, in the Tombs Police Court, that the man was standing in front of his house at 110th street and Manhattan avenue when he started downtown yesterday morning and had made a motion as though to strike him. Pullen said he jumped and the man then pretended that he merely had wanted to draw a pencil from his pocket, with which to scribble

Pullen said that he later found McKew istening at the mail slot in his office door.
That was too much for the promoter, and he had the man arrested. McKew refused to tell the name of his employer. . Wendell Jackson, a business associate J. Wendell Jackson, a business associate of Pullen, said that he was present when McKew was permitted by the policeman who arrested him to telephone a lawyer. Jackson asserted that McKew said over Is that Mr. Osborne's office? Yes?

"Is that Mr. Osborne's office? Yes? Well, I am out on your business. I have been arrested. Come and get me out."

"I have instituted suit against several business men for $10,000 damages for injuries they have done me," said Pullen, and they are trying to injure and annoy me in every way in the hope of forcing me to retire from the dispute for the sake of peace. A detective who was hired to annoy me by pulling my door bell to keep me awake at nights is now under $300 bonds to keep the peace. That is what keep me awake at nights is now under $300 bonds to keep the peace. That is what I want done with this man."

Magistrate Mayo adjourned the case until this morning.

RYE IS NOW A VILLAGE.

Proposition to Incorporate Wins by a Vote of 158 to 47.

RYE, N. Y., Sept. 12.-Joy reigns to-night in Rye over the birth of a new village government, which was carried to-day at a special election held under an act passed at the last session of the Legislature. Although Rye was settled in 1660, to-day was the first time that the residents voted on the subject of incorporation. The vote stood

The New Yorkers who have country places in the town turned out at the polls, and most of them voted in favor of the creation of the village. Much interest creation of the village. Much interest was uroused by the report that women were to have votes. It was found, however, that the women were not entitled to vote, but that if they owned property their husbands could vote for them. Although no women voted, they took considerable interest in the outcome, and many of them drove to the polls with their husbands and urged them to vote for incorporation. The new village will be the taird which has been incorporated in the town of Rye.

NEW LIQUID AIR CO. BROKE. | NOTE STOPPED THE WEDDING. Contained Warning That Bridegroom Was

a Married Man. Martin Townski and Sophie Kowoski of Jersey City were to have been married at 10 o'clock yesterday morning in St. Anthony's Catholic Church, that city. Ten minutes before the wedding party had planned to start for the church the following unsigned message was delivered to the bride's father:

Stop the wedding. Your daughter is about o wed a married man.

Kowoski showed the note to Townski who swore there wasn't a word of truth in it. The young man wanted to proceed to the church, but the father said the ceremony would have to be postponed until the matter was investigated. Kowoski dismissed the waiting coachman and explained to the invited guests what had happened. In the meanwhile many friends of the pair had gathered at the church, and Father Kwaitowski was wondering why the bridal party did not appear. All hands left the church about 11 o'clock.

Sophie was of the opinion that an enemy who was jealous of her had plotted to ruin her happiness. Townski was greatly excited over the postponement of the wedding, and wept. He said he had prepared a home for his bride and the banns had been published three times. Kowoski will write to Townski's home in the old country, and if he hears that there is no impediment to take place

PEACE PARLIAMENT MEETS. Many Foreign Delegates Welcomed

St. Louis to This Country. ST. Louis, Sept. 12.-The twelfth session of the Interparliamentary Union was called to order in Festival Hall this morning, 200 delegates being present and fourteen countries being represented. Dr. Albert Gobat of Switzerland introduced Congressman Richard Bartholdt of Missouri, the president, in French. Mr. Bartheldt addressed the meeting in English, as did Francis B. Loomis, First Assistant Secretary of State, representing President Roosevelt. The representatives of foreign spoke in their native tongues.

In extending a welcome on behalf of the Congress of the United States Mr. Bartholdt felicitated the delegates upon the fact that fourteen nations were represented and said:

"The Government that takes the lead in the making of arbitration treaties will reap great benefits and the plaudits of mankind. The countries which refuse to make such treaties will stand convicted by public sentiment.

Assistant Secretary Loomis extended a welcome to the delegates in behalf of the President of the United States, who, he said, was in entire sympathy with the great movement to insure a worldwide peace. He remarked that "President Roosevelt realizes the horrors of war as well as the blessings of peace."

The United States, Mr. Loomis declared, has served on 70 out of 100 boards of arbitration called to settle international disputes, and throughout the length and breadth of civilization the wisdom of American internation is recognized. There are can judgment is recognized. There are three questions, Mr. Loomis said, which particularly should engage the attention of the peace parliament, as bearing on its labors, anarchy, immigration and emi-gration.

of the peace pariament, as bearing on its labors, anarchy, immigration and emigration.

Mr. Loomis was followed by President Francis of the world's fair, who delivered a short address of welcome.

At the afternoon session the following vice-presidents made addresses to the congress, each in his own language: Germany, Deputy Hauptmann; Austria, Ritter von Gnievosse; Belgium, Senator Houseau; Denmark, Senator von Krabbe; France, M. Cochery; Great Britain, Phillip Stanhope; Hunzary, Count Apponyi; Italy, Marchese Di San Cullano; Norway, John Lund; the Netherlands, M. Tydeman; Portugal, Gen. De Bavila; Roumania, Gen. Pilat; Sweden, Deputy Bekman; Switzerland, Deputy Gobat.

This evening the delegates attended a dinner at the Tyrolean Alps.

LION'S VICTIM IS DEAD. Thiel Put His Arm in the Cage to Stir the Animal Up. Edward Thiel of Jersey City died in St. Barnabas's Hospital, Newark, yesterday morning of acute blood poisoning, as a result of terrible lacerations to his right arm inflicted by a lion at Olympic Park on Saturday night. The lion, Sultan, has been ugly for some time. Thiel, who was proprietor of the Glen Side Hotel, at Jersey City was at the park as a visitor. Sultan was asleep as Thiel approached its cage. Some of the spectators expressed a wish to see the beast raise its head. Thiel, who was an old animal trainer, reached his hand through the bars and took hold of Sultan's mane the bars and took hold of Sultan's mane. The animal swung one of its paws around and caught Thiel's arm, and when the man was finally pulled away his arm was badly torn. The physicians at St. Barnabas's say that Thiel's case was the most severe affection of the blood that has ever been treated there. The poison began to work almost at once, and before the man died his arm was swollen to twice its ordinary size. was swollen to twice its ordinary size ATTACKS SECRET SOCIETIES. Bishop Ludden Says They Are the Curse of the Country.

SYRACUSE, Sept. 12.-After administering confirmation at St. Joseph's French Catholic Church to a class numbering 120 children and three adult converts, the Right Rev. Bishop Patrick A. Ludden of the Syracuse diocese of the Catholic Church yesterday dealt a blow to secret societies, which he characterized as the curse of the country. The worst as the curse of the country. The worst Catholics, he said, are those who break away from the Church, and as an illustration of this he took up the present Government of France. The Government, he said, is made up largely of men baptized in the Catholic Church, and he attributed the backsliding to secret societies.

"Never join a secret society," he said; "they are the curse of the country, the destroyer of religion and the ruination of society. Avoid all secret societies, for they ruin the morals."

the Sunday law in participating in a game in Washington Park on Sunday, May 29, took place yesterday in the Court of Special Sessions and resulted in an acquittal.

The prosecution established the fact that an admission fee was charged, but there was no evidence that there was any disorderly conduct or that the peace of the neighborhood had been in any way disturbed. Police Captain White admitted that he could not secure any witnesses whose tranquillity had been interfered with during the progress of the game. The Court unanimously decided on dismissing the complaint.

She said that about 6 o'clock in the morning, while she was walking along Park row on her way to an employment office, she met the young men. They led her to the rooms of a political club at 20 Chambers street, where one held her and the other attacked her.

When she was released she ran out into the street and called Policeman Alexander Schmidt of the Elizabeth street station, who arrested Strobel and Geraghty. The girl, when first arraigned in the Tombs police court, was committed to the House of Detention, but was later paroled in the custody of Mrs. Kierman.

On Sept. 6, the date set for the examination of the two young men, Abe Pearlman, an East Side lawyer, and his aid, Joe Levy, the "Duke of Essex street," appeared for the defence. The girl did not appear to prosecute Mrs. Kiernan's niece, Tessie Conalty, to Go Above Franklin Street. With the old Tweed court house daily alling into a more dilapidated condition despite constant patching and attempts at improved ventilation, with the rain pouring through its cracked walls and wornout roofs whenever there is a storm, comes the announcement yesterday that the members of the commission appointed by Mayor Low to select a site for a new court house have decided to abandon all hope of selecting a site for a new home for the Supreme Court and the Surrogates' Court without more legislation. It was said yesterday that several members of the commission had decided that the act limiting them in the selection of a site to a place south of Franklin street should be amended, so as to extend the territory as far north as Twenty-third street. For that purpose a bill will probably be introduced in the Legislature next winter providing for the selection of a site as far north as Twenty-third street. It was not expected that the measure would meet with any serious exposition from the results. expected that the measure would meet with any serious opposition from the members of the commission.
